Family Tree, Inc. Receives $32,500 through Denver Post Season To Share
DENVER- Family Tree, Inc. received $32,500 through Denver Post Season To Share, a McCormick Foundation Fund, to support programs focused on ending child abuse, domestic violence and homelessness during a reception held on April 24.

A record-breaking $2,341,500 was distributed to 74 Denver-area nonprofit agencies through this year's Season To Share campaign. Since 1992, this program has raised charitable donations that are matched and disbursed to local nonprofit organizations serving low-income children as well as those who are homeless, hungry or in need of medical care. Funds are raised through reader, community and corporate donations, and each dollar donated is matched at 50 cents by the McCormick Foundation. The Denver Newspaper Agency and the McCormick Foundation pay all administrative costs, allowing 100 percent of donations, plus the match, to go directly to charitable organizations. In total over the past 17 years, more than $24 million has been distributed through Season To Share.

Family Tree will use its Denver Post Season To Share funding to support Family Tree Women In Crisis shelter, part of our Domestic Violence Services, whose purpose is to increase the safety and healing of children, parents and individuals from the effects of domestic violence by providing a continuum of support services, education and resources for them and their community. Domestic Violence Services provides a 24-hour crisis line, safe emergency shelter, women and children's advocacy, food, clothing, on-site health clinic, case management, legal advocacy services that include protection order clinics and free family law clinics, counseling services that include individual and group counseling for adult survivors and children, supervised parenting time and safe exchange services, and community education.

Since 1976, Family Tree has provided a continuum of services and shelter to families and youth of metro Denver to overcome child abuse, domestic violence and homelessness. Last year, Family Tree provided services to more than 31,000 people, including more than 25,000 nights of safe shelter to families and individuals who might otherwise be homeless. The mission of Family Tree is to help people overcome child abuse, domestic violence and homelessness to become safe, strong and self-reliant.
